It is true that from some of the more exacting realists we have had vehement protests against the school of the trapdoor and dagger, but the majority of readers show a readiness to stray from the paths of realism, tempted by the clash of swords. Crockett and Doyle, Hope with his Count Antonio, Gilbert Parker, Yeats with The Honour of Savelli, and Hotchkiss with In Defiance of the King, are examples close at hand of this alert interest in the revival of the past, and with them we may now count Mr. Snaith. We are told often enough that coats of mail or velvet cloaks and plumes are but tarnished stage properties in the relentless light of modernity; but, without assuming to hold a brief for any school, there are wholesome reasons for preferring the romance of other days to the phases of fin-de-siecle fiction which deal only with the revolting daughter and the mismated wife, and the woman with a past and the man without a future. From the Troglodytes down to the problem-ridden readers of our day story-telling for story-telling s sake has kept its hold, and it exists now side by side with fiction which illuminates the life of which we form a part. For one mood there is Weyman or Doyle, for another Mrs. Ward, let us say, or Howells. About the Publisher Forgotten Books...
